INTRODUCTION

Background

Present community and police consultative arrangements have their origins in the late 1970s and early 1980s. The Scarman Report (1982), in recognising the gap between the police and the people they policed, suggested that local people should be consulted about how they were policed. This recommendation was enshrined in Section 106 of the Police and Criminal Evidence Act (PACE) 1984, and since consolidated under Section 96 of the Police Act 1996 (and further amended by the GLA Act 1999).

The relationships that have subsequently been forged with Community Police Consultative Groups (CPCGs) represent a unique partnership between a statutory organisation and the community. It is a partnership that can point to some impressive achievements.

Changing Requirements:

The legislative and mandatory requirements by which consultation must be undertaken with the public about policing in London have multiplied considerably in recent years. These include, not only the Police Act (1996), Crime and Disorder Act (1998), Local Government Act (1999), GLA Act (1999) and the Race Relations (Amendment) Act (2000) but also the recommendations made by Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary (HMIC), the GLA Equalities for All Review, as well as the Government directives regarding modernisation and Best Value Performance Indicators (VIPs).

In working to improve and strengthen the partnership framework between the MPA and CPCGs, the MPA has also sought advice and undertaken internal audits and reviews. These have assisted in clarifying the nature of the relationship between the MPA and CPCGs as well as identifying improvements in the administrative arrangements and financial management of CPCGs

These statutory and management requirements provide the foundation for the MPA's new policy and procedural framework for funding community and police consultative initiatives. This framework is informed:

(i) by the wider legislative and policy requirements including for example:

? the MPA's responsibility to address the agenda for modernising government, (e.g. performance indicators and outcome measures);

? the MPA's duty to conform with the new emphasis on public and fiscal accountability;

? the MPA's new statutory duties as a public oversight body as well as in local crime and disorder partnerships; and

? the MPA's duties under the Race Relations (Amendment) Act and other equalities and non-discrimination legislation.

(ii) by the need to establish and strengthen the utilisation of the outputs and results of community consultation into the MPA's pan-London governance responsibilities - and thereby fulfil the MPA's statutory duty "to obtain the views of the public about policing".

(iii) by the need to inform and strengthen both the public accountability processes and the public oversight and scrutiny responsibility for policing at both a local and pan-London level.

- (iv) by following best management practice in all its dealings with the organisations it funds.

The aim of this framework is to strengthen community involvement, awareness and influence of policing in London.

Efficient police services that meet people's varied needs through strategic, well co-ordinated partnerships between local organisations, are now a central part of government policy. The MPA is committed to ensuring that these partnerships are indeed well co-ordinated and are accountable to the communities they serve. It is also vital that the MPA itself - through the deliberations and results of these local and pan-London partnerships and consultative arrangements - is aware of the policing services that people want, and takes steps to provide these.

The MPA's statutory duties and commitments to supporting community consultation are consistent with the government's programmes for devolving and modernising public services. They give London residents, and the voluntary and community organisations that represent them, the direct means by which to influence policing issues.

Strengthening community involvement will help raise standards and put community participation at the heart of police policy-making and service delivery.

The following guidelines and criteria, as well as a revised application form are therefore a reflection of these commitments and response to new statutory requirements and legislative directives.

GUIDELINES AND CRITERIA

Financial support to CPCGs might be described as a partnership that helps the MPA achieve its goals. The MPA's consultation goals can be better achieved by supporting the work of groups that are closer to the communities they serve. By investing in funding partnerships, the MPA is investing in a future of engaged Londoners and inclusive, safe communities.

Objectives:

All funding requests must meet the general objective of providing effective ways by which residents can understand and influence policing practices, policies, plans and priorities at the borough level as well as contribute at a pan-London level. In so doing they should also strengthen:

- 1. Positive community and police relations;
- 2. Respect and value for the borough's diverse character;
- 3. Informed community engagement in the policing of the borough.

Activities:

Activities considered for funding might include those directed at establishing community access to and participation in local partnerships and providing the community capacity to monitor and influence the decision-making of policing. Activities also might include those that specifically promote the participation of 'hard to reach' communities.

Activities also might include research, advocacy and other projects designed to inform and articulate community perspectives on particular policing issues. These might address particular policing concerns at the strategic level that can be directed to the police at a borough or pan-London level.

Eligibility Criteria:

The Group:

- ? Should be fully constituted not-for-profit. Groups which are not incorporated must demonstrate financial accountability and enter into a Service Level Agreement with a local authority or get a not-for-profit organisation to provide the required administrative support.
- ? Must have elected officers or other governing structure, elected by the general membership. Elected officers must serve in a voluntary capacity and be representative of, and accountable to the community they serve or intend to reach.
- ? Must have the formal involvement of a statutory body, such as the police, in the activities for which funding is sought.

Assessment Criteria:

The assessment of the application by the MPA will examine the viability of the group and its capacity to deliver the activities for which funds have been requested. This is one way in which the MPA works to ensure that public funds are being used as directed by the Authority. The effectiveness of CPCGs will therefore be assessed based on evidence of the following criteria:

- Sound financial management
- Elected officers managing the group's resources, are reflective of the community they serve, and demonstrate accountability to the membership

- Membership is representative of the community
- Consults all sections of the community including “hard to reach” groups
- Engages in local crime and disorder partnership initiatives, and consults with sector working groups, neighbourhood watch schemes, etc.
- Consults on the local policing priorities and plans, and considers and makes recommendations on strategic matters which require the attention of the MPA and the MPS
- Monitors and records all activities, and can measure the impact and results of its work
- Has clearly stated goals and objectives and the methods/ activities that will achieve them;
- Demonstrates the ability of the organisation and its staff to carry out the activities;
- Demonstrates that the activities are realistic, logical and attainable in terms of timing and resources;
- Demonstrates that the budget is reasonable and justified.

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT?

Stage 1 - On receipt of your application form an acknowledgement letter will be sent to the Group within 10 working days.

Stage 2 - Officers will carry out an initial check to ensure that the application form is fully completed and Groups have submitted all the documents requested on the checklist. Incomplete applications will be returned highlighting further information required. Officers may consult with the Borough Commander, the MPA Link Member and other community organisations with respect to the Group and the viability of the proposed activities.

Stage 3 - Officers will carry out a secondary eligibility test, consisting of a desktop assessment of your application. You may receive a telephone call seeking clarification on certain aspects of your application or a request for additional information at this stage.

Stage 4 - Officers and Members will meet to discuss the level of funding to allocate to individual Groups. The intention is to ensure that funding is distributed on a fair basis across London and that allocations meet the needs of the Groups.

Stage 5 - Recommendations as to the final level of funding will be made to the Consultation Committee for decision in March 2004. Prior to the final decision by the Consultation Committee, all Groups will be informed of the proposed funding level for all CPCGs by post and email. Any Groups who wish to appeal their recommended allocation can do so either in writing or orally before an Appeals Panel, comprised of two Members of the MPA and the Deputy Clerk, that will meet as soon as practical after the March Consultation Committee meeting. Applicants should contact the MPA [Tel: 020 7202 0229] prior to the Consultation Committee meeting to indicate their intention to attend.

Stage 6 - Groups that are allocated funds will receive a Letter of Understanding. This letter sets out the terms and conditions of funding and forms an agreement between the MPA and the Group. It must be signed by an Officer of the Group and returned to the MPA before funds can be released.

Stage 7 - Cheques for the full amount approved will be mailed out upon receipt the signed Letter of Understanding.
