Special Prosecutions Unit
Man jailed for forging electoral registration forms

A 32-year-old man who admitted forging electoral registration forms was jailed for a total of 30 months at Isleworth Crown Court.

Hayder Al Moallem filled in false details on 16 forms and sent them to Ealing Borough Council. The fake details claimed numerous residents of Belgian nationality lived at the addresses.

Detectives from the Special Prosecutions Unit of the Met's SO15 Counter Terrorism Command, who carried out the investigation, discovered that many of the false names he used were variations of Belgian footballers first and surnames.

Al Moallem, of Greenford, had admitted 25 charges relating to forged electoral registration forms and counterfeit passports at earlier hearings in December 2006 and January 2007.

He was arrested in December 2005 following a joint investigation between the Special Prosecutions Unit, MPS officers from Ealing, and Ealing Borough Council's Electoral Services department.

6 March
MPS Extradition Unit
22 arrested for offences committed abroad

The Met police's Extradition Unit targeted numerous addresses in London to arrest a total of 22 criminals, wanted for offences abroad.

Ten teams of officers began the operation at 6:00am all over London, arresting suspects wanted for a whole spectrum of offences, from rape and kidnap to fraud, theft and robbery.

The arrests continued throughout the day continuing through into the night.

Requests for extradition come via the Serious and Organised Crime Agency and the Home Office to the Met police. In general, an extradition treaty needs to be in existence before the European warrant can be issued. However, in certain circumstances the court (City of Westminster MC) will consider requests from countries where a treaty is not in place.

Suspects come from a wide range of countries - any request from another country for extradition comes to the unit and the police officers would seek intelligence to confirm the individuals whereabouts, this could be anywhere in the UK.

Wanstead
Safer Neighbourhoods team clean up churchyard

PCSO’s from Wanstead Safer Neighbourhoods team and Redbridge Volunteer Police Cadets cleaned up the overgrown churchyard of Aldersbrook Baptist Church.

Cleaning and tidying the churchyard have removed areas where youths could congregate or hide. In addition to the clear up of the grounds, the doors were repainted and the windows had new freshly painted boards put in place giving the building a brighter and cleaner look.

Prior to this, the churchyard had been the subject of several complaints regarding youths using the churchyard for criminal activity such as graffiti and other forms of criminal damage.

The churchyard is now a more friendly place to view and walk past thereby reducing the fear of crime to anyone passing.

South Twickenham Safer Neighbourhoods team had a very successful bike marking session on Saturday 24 February at the Cricket Pavilion on The Green. Between 10am and 2pm 42 members of the public turned out to have their bikes marked and registered with bikeregister.com

PC Dave Hicks said " It was so successful, that we are going to hold another session in five weeks time. Sergeant Darby, PCSO's Savill, Ashley Mcgarrett, Yong and myself were there on the day, marking the bikes and getting to know the residents. Mr Butlin a local member of the liberal democrats came along and had his bike marked."

Upper Edmonton Safer Neighbourhoods team road safety initiative

Concentrating on speeding, seat belt offences and school parking restrictions in the vicinity of the schools, police officers stop offending drivers and invite them to listen to pupils from local schools who are equipped with a clip-board and prepared sheet with information about road safety, for example:

- What yellow zig-zag lines are for and the penalty for parking on them
- New seat belt legislation
- Statistics on deaths and injuries on the road as a result of speeding

In order to achieve the greatest impact, the children ask each driver, "How would you feel if you seriously injured or killed me as a result of your speeding?"

Staff from the Enfield Road Safety Partnership also attend the operations with their valuable advice and knowledge.

At Raynham Primary School on 19 February 2007, five pupils assisted police and staff from the Enfield Road Safety Partnership, resulting in 28 people being stopped, one Fixed Penalty Notice issued for a seatbelt offence and three verbal warnings.

Mayor visits Harrow borough to improve community safety

Last week, Ken Livingstone Mayor of London, met with police officers in Harrow and local school children to discuss pioneering work to improve community safety.

The Mayor met members of the Canons and Edgware Safer Neighbourhoods teams at their new community headquarters in Canons Park and members of the Edgware Youth Forum, which has been set up by local officers.

Canons Safer Neighbourhoods team is one of 630 local police teams in London and 21 local police teams in Harrow. Local police teams are now in place in every neighbourhood in London, 18 months ahead of schedule.

Detective Superintendent Richard Freeman, Harrow's Acting Borough Commander, said: "We are delighted that the Mayor has seen the excellent work of our Safer Neighbourhood teams.

"Since the expansion of the Safer Neighbourhoods programme to all our wards, we have seen great benefits, and have made great strides in terms of improving community relations."
